Changed Testimony

Mr. Morse, who had been before the grand jury, was recalled and asked if such a loan had been made. [illegible] he denied that the money had been loaned to Thomas. [illegible] was again summoned and this time [illegible] is further alleged produced a letter which Morse wrote, recommending the loan. Later Mr. Morse again appeared before the grand jury at his own request and, it is said, explained that he wished to correct his [illegible] This he is said to have done and the testimony is said to have agreed with what had been learned from other witnesses.

It is pointed out, however, that the law is such that corrected testimony before a grand jury may be made a basis for a charge of perjury.

Less Than an Hour Spent in Deliberation.—Defendant Caused Death of W. O. Shirey

DENVER, Feb. 17.—The jury in the case of Miss Beatrice Gordon, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff W. O. Shirey, tonight returned a verdict of acquittal. Miss Gordon, on the witness stand, told of her relations with Shirey, with whom she had lived as housekeeper for a number of years. She claimed that on the night of the killing she was preparing to leave the Shirey house and sever all relations with the man. He had abused her constantly all the year she was with him, she claimed, and on this night advised her to kill herself. In a struggle to gain possession of a revolver the weapon was discharged and Shirey was killed. The jury was out less than an hour.

GOVERNMENT SUPPLY MEASURE PASSES HOUSE.

Lively Debate Over Several of the Provisions.—Senate Holds Executive Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, one of the large supply measures of the government, was passed by the House today after several days' discussion. The amount carried by it is practically as reported by the committee—$32,336,573.

There was a lively debate over the provision giving discretion to heads of departments to remove or reduce in [illegible] incapacitated employes of the government. When the provision was reached Mr. Goulden (N. Y.) made a point of order against it.

The chair sustained Mr. Goulden's point of order. The provision accordingly went out of the bill, but immediately afterward the House amended the provision by way of a substitute: "The appropriations herein made for the officers, clerks and persons employed in the public service shall not be available for the compensation of any person incapacitated for performing the service for which such person has been employed."

Mr. Langley (Ky.) created a stir when he offered an amendment exempting from the provisions of the law employes who served in the army or navy of the United States during the war of the rebellion or who as members of state militia organizations acted in suppressing the rebellion, and the widows of such persons.

The amendment was lost by the chair's ruling that it was offered too late.

JURY IN SNELL WILL CASE IS DISCHARGED.

Contestant Will Ask for a New Trial of Case at May Term of Court. Many Sensations Sprung.

CLINTON, Ill., Feb. 17.—The jury in the Snell $2,000,000 will case was discharged by Judge Cochran late today, being unable to reach a verdict. Richard Snell, the contestant, announces that he will ask for a new trial of the case at the May term of court.

The last ballot stood 8 for the contestant to 4 for the proponents of the will. The jury had been out since Saturday. The suit to break the will of Colonel Thomas Snell was brought by the aged and eccentric millionaire's son, Richard Snell, president of the Clinton bank. It has been rife with sensations, chief of which were the Snell letters, written by women and young girls to the old man, who was willing to pay lavishly for being loved and for being told so in affectionately written epistles, in which appeals for money mingled with expressions of endearment.

Among the letters were some from the wife of a clergyman, who had not only expressed her own love, but told Snell that her daughter, 18 years old, would love him if he would send her money. Letters from the girl herself bearing out the promise of the mother were introduced at the trial of the suit to break the will.

When Colonel Snell died in June, 1907, he left an estate of $2,000,000. To his son Richard he left only an annuity of $[illegible] per year. To a grandniece, Mabelle Snell McNamara, he left property valued at $[illegible], and an annuity of $1,000 per year. The rest of his property he left in trust, interest to be added each year to the principal until 20 years after the death of his youngest grandchild, then [illegible] years of age.

Alderman Frost Invites Holden Into Alley After Exchange of Heated Words—Colleagues Restore Order, and Meeting Proceeds Peacefully

For the contract—Aldermen John Hill, A. M. Hill, W. J. Kasson, F. W. Frost and C. T. Fertig.

Against the contract—Aldermen A. M. Holden, Carl Albin and L. B. Hosman.

By a vote of five to three the City Council at its regular meeting last night adopted the contract between the city of Colorado Springs and the Hydro-Electric company which was presented to the council two weeks ago and recommended by [illegible] of the special committee of the council which has been working on the matter for several months. Holden's minority report was moved for adoption and turned down by a vote of six to two, Holden and Albin voting in the affirmative.

Looked Like Mixup

Although there was no delegation of citizens at the meeting to protest against the contract, as had been anticipated by those opposed to it, the fight against the measure was quite bitter on the part of Holden, Albin and Hosman. The climax came when Frost accused Holden [illegible] grand stand play with the hope of being re-elected at the next election.

Holden resented this remark and [illegible]

"While I have been in this Council I have studiously avoided personalities, and I think Mr. Frost is no gentleman or he would not make such statements."

In spite of the burden of years, Frost showed wonderful agility in getting to [illegible] Holden [illegible]

Arguments of Opposition

[illegible] had already [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] arc lamp [illegible] Holden claimed [illegible] [illegible] and that the city was [illegible] rights in [illegible]

Albin said that the [illegible] had been framed up six weeks ago. He claimed that his oration at the last meeting had never gotten into print and that the citizens, therefore, did not know that the city was being "hog tied" [illegible] to the Hydro-Electric company.

Holden objected to the contract largely on the ground that the company was entitled to only 80 per cent of the bill now due, instead of the 94 per cent which has been figured out as the amount due "on the basis of the arbitrators' award."

Contract Upheld

John Hill, A. M. Hill, Frost, Kasson and Fertig spoke briefly in defense of the contract and were unanimous in claiming that if the other three aldermen had spent as much time and labor as they [illegible] had [illegible] to reach a business arrangement by which the difficulty between the city and the company could be brought to a settlement, they would know [illegible] about the [illegible]

What [illegible]

TIMELY TOPICS

REGARDING CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

NEGLECTED COLDS

GOOD ADVICE TO WISE WOMEN AND PRUDENT MEN.

[illegible] with a cold is good [illegible] a woman, it may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper [illegible] against colds. If they are contracted through the changeable weather of Autumn, Winter and Spring, the chances of a surprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well-established ripe cold is to the germ of diphtheria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child-life is the neglected cold. Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adapted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sales of this medicine have been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given.

LA GRIPPE

PHYSICAL AND MENTAL AGONY.

LACK OF SYMPATHY.

Before we can sympathize with others we must have suffered ourselves. No one can realize the suffering attendant on an attack of la grippe unless he has had the actual experience. There is probably no disease that causes so much physical and mental agony, or which so successfully defies medical aid. All danger from la grippe, however, may be avoided by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Severe Attack of Grippe Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Colonel Cornelius P. Cole, a well-known and much respected citizen of Appanoose county, Iowa, now past 70 years of age, who came to Iowa with his wife over fifty years ago, says, "Myself and wife were both soundly cured of severe and stubborn attacks of grippe last winter by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a wonderful remedy and we never wish to be without it."

CROUP

MUST CHECK DISEASE AT THE START.

Don't wait till the [illegible] attack of croup in your child. The hoarseness and croupy cough are often overlooked by persons not acquainted with the disease, and sometimes not heeded by those that know the danger signal. Thousands of infant children die yearly of croup. Every one of these innocents could have been saved had Chamberlain's Cough Remedy been given in time. The time wasted in sending for a physician or for medicine when a child shows symptoms of croup often proves fatal. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should always be kept in the house for immediate use. Remember, it will prevent an attack if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is safe and sure. Contains no narcotics. Always cures. It is the mother's favorite cough remedy in all parts of the world.

HOARSENESS

HOW CAUSED AND WHEN DANGEROUS.

Hoarseness, or roughness of voice, arises from several causes. The most common is when the mucus is allowed to collect on the vocal cords. This is dangerous, for unless the mucus is removed it is most likely to become a hotbed of disease, and will develop into some serious chronic throat or lung complaint. A small dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will work wonders. Not only does it at once clear away the mucus, but also assists Nature to strengthen the vocal cords, and make the accumulation less likely to occur. The mere fact that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is free from all narcotics makes it the best to use in all cases of hoarseness. Another common cause of hoarseness is the swelling or looseness of the vocal cords. This is generally caused by sudden exposure or by protracted public speaking. This phase is often called "clergyman's hoarseness." The soothing properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy act most beneficially in such cases, and by soothing any inflamed cords, soon enables them to resume a natural condition.

BRONCHITIS

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT TO DO.

This is only another name for a severe cold in the chest [illegible]. It is attended with cough, hoarseness, more or less pain, soreness of the throat and lungs, expectoration of mucus, sometimes mixed with blood, tightness about the chest or throat, a difficulty in breathing. In the first stages, high fever and night sweats prevail. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the medicine for this disease. It at once relieves the cough, eases the pain, lessens the difficulty in breathing, and by producing a free and easy expectoration subdues the inflammation. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is soothing and healing. It is always the common neglected cold that causes the trouble. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the first indication of the cough or cold, and thus avoid any serious complications.

ONE INSTANCE.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy."

PNEUMONIA

THE CAUSES, AND HOW TO PREVENT.

Old people and those who have weak lungs cannot be too careful in guarding against this disease. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza, and can be prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many people who have had every reason to fear pneumonia have warded it off by the prompt use of this remedy.

WHOOPING COUGH

SYMPTOMS, AND ITS DANGERS.

Whooping cough is a very dangerous disease [illegible] statistics show that there are more deaths from it than from scarlet fever. You cannot mistake the symptoms — [illegible] the coughing, worse at night — peculiar sound or whoop — labored expectoration of mucus — apparent suffocation after coughing. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once, repeating the dose frequently. The quick relief afforded by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy makes it a favorite with mothers of small children. It liquifies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, keeps the cough loose, and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with perfect success. There is no danger whatever from the disease when it is freely given. It contains nothing injurious, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult.

DIPHTHERIA

RESULTS FROM A NEGLECTED COLD.

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold, which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one partially susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given, it not only cures the cold, but greatly lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted. There is no danger in giving this remedy, as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, and may be given to a baby as confidently as to an adult.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

If you fail to get beneficial results after using two-thirds of a bottle of according to directions, return it to your dealer and get your money back. It is well known for its prompt cures of coughs, colds, and croup and can always be depended upon. It is pleasant to take which is of much importance when medicine must be given to young children.

NEW LAWS ON MARRIAGE

Apply to Catholics and Will Be Effective on Easter.

New laws governing marriage in the Catholic church, promulgated by Pope Pius X last [illegible] as a revision of the laws formulated by the Council of Trent in the sixteenth century, are being given to the Catholics of this region now, with explanatory sermons by the pastors of the various parishes. The laws become effective at Easter. They have been issued with the purpose of making marriage more thoroughly a union of love and of making divorces and separations less frequent.

Hereafter members of the Catholic faith who wish to marry will be compelled to have their engagements ratified in writing before at least two witnesses and the priest of their parish. No civil law marriage will be recognized in the eyes of the Catholic church unless it be performed in case of extreme necessity and during the absence of more than one month from the parish priest. In no other case after Easter will a civil marriage be considered valid.

It is expected by the Catholic clergy that this will effectually put a stop to hasty marriages. A strict interpretation of the new edict does not mean that members of the Catholic church may not become engaged as has been the custom for so many years—engagements may be contracted and the engagements may be kept secret indefinitely, but at least one month must intervene after the formal announcement and witnessing of the engagement ere the contracting parties may be married.

LABOR QUESTION CONSIDERED

Colorado City Council Will Try to Find Work for Unemployed Men.

The many men now out of work in Colorado City formed the chief topic of discussion at the council meeting last night. No definite plan was made for taking care of the men, but if Arensdale and Grand View do not carry the annexation case any further in the courts, it is probable that several men will be employed in that section of the city to fix the roadways. The meeting was adjourned until next Monday, when it will be known what action the residents of that region intend to take.

A committee composed of Aldermen Goodall and Sims was appointed by the mayor, on vote of the council, to buy not more than 400 feet of hose at 70 cents a foot, if the committee decides that new hose is necessary.

The ordinance passed at the last meeting prohibiting anyone from selling liquor in less than a gallon quantity was amended to except druggists, who may sell small quantities for medicinal, chemical and mechanical purposes.

Alderman Dunbar made a report on the water proposition made last meeting by Mr. Shankspaul, who owns a site for reservoirs and water rights in Bear Creek canon. The matter was referred back to the committee with indefinite time to look the matter up.

The police committee has been asked to get bids for the feeding of the prisoners from the restaurants owned by Americans, and to give the contract to them if advisable. Bids will be asked for the furnishing of coal for the city for the remaining months. D. C. Moshier offered the city the use of his property between Colorado avenue and the creek north of Eleventh street for a dumping ground. The matter was referred to the committee.

Colorado Springs put in a bill for $75.96 for the care of a smallpox patient, E. M. Perry, and also for 9 per cent of the amount paid out for maintaining the sewer system for the first six months of the past year, and 7 7-10 per cent for the same work during the past six months. The Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company sent a bill for $11 for electrical work in putting in the alarm board in the fire department.

The question of buying 25 lots adjoining the cemetery from Anthony Bott, for $2,600, paying $500 down and the remainder in five or six years, at 6 per cent interest, was referred to a committee composed of Aldermen Hinkson and Seavey, and Attorney Jackson.

The bond of the city treasurer was filed and accepted.

The changes to be made in the police force were left to the mayor and the police committee, who decided to leave matters as they are for the present.

The following bills were read and allowed: Sheriff O. P. Grimes, $11.75, for services in annexation case; court fees in annexation and other cases, $25; Robinson Grain company, $50.81; M. Sherman, $22; M. Sherman, $3.45; Roles & Sutherland, $5.85; H. A. Dunbar, for repairing city hall, $3.45.

A Testimonial

Buick Motor Company,
Chicago Branch,
Chicago, Ill.

September 4, 1907.

Gentlemen:

I trust it will be gratifying to the Buick Motor Company to know that the four-cylinder touring car sold to me two months ago has fully substantiated my reasons for buying it. The 3,000 miles I have driven it, were in all conditions of weather and over all kinds of country. My engine has never missed fire or refused to take the grade or make the time necessary.

Several of my friends who have paid $1,000 more for "more power," etc., now tell me they can't see where they have anything to show for it. Being thoroughly familiar with the assemblage of most of the American cars, after several years of experience and study, it is exceedingly to have the car I finally chose, back up this experience.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JOHN VAN NORTWICK.

Miss Phoebe Strakosch, who will be the Madam Butterfly at the night performance, is a new prima donna for Colorado Springs and much interest attaches itself to her, partly because of her being the favorite niece of Italy's dirinest diva, Adelina Patti, but particularly because of her triumph in the Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, German and French capitals, where she is a petted favorite. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1908.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY.

THE tenth anniversary of the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor passed almost without notice. It was on the night of February 15, 1898, that this historic vessel was destroyed by an accident, officially determined to "have been produced only by the explosion of a mine situated under the bottom of the ship." It is quite possible that war between the United States and Spain would have occurred anyway, for the controversy over the status of Cuba had become so acute that its peaceable solution seemed hopeless [illegible] is one of the questions that can never be answered. It is certain that the destruction of the Maine hastened the conflict, for though the American public, as a rule, showed commendable common sense in accepting Captain Sigsbee's advice to "suspend judgment," it was difficult for even the coolest of our statesmen to remain wholly uninfluenced by the disaster.

The actual beginning of hostilities followed in about two months. On April 9 Consul General Lee left Havana. On the 11th the President sent a message to Congress setting forth the situation, and on the 18th Congress resolved that "the people of Cuba are and of right ought to be free," and directed the President to use the entire land and naval forces to accomplish this end. The vote in the House was 310 to 6. The President signed this act two days later, and the Spanish Minister left Washington that night. The next day our minister to Spain, Mr. Woodford, left Madrid, and at sunrise on April [illegible] the American fleet steamed away from Key West to establish a blockade along the Cuban coast.

Two days later Commodore Dewey, in command of the cruiser squadron at Hongkong, received his famous order: "Proceed at once to the Philippines. Commence operations at once, particularly against the Spanish fleet. You must capture vessels or destroy." On that memorable Sunday morning, May 1, Dewey inflicted upon the Spanish fleet what was probably the most crushing defeat in naval history, for in a pitched battle which lasted several hours he destroyed all of the more important Spanish warships, captured the others and silenced the shore batteries—and all of this without the loss of a man and with no damage to his own vessels. This event put an end to Spanish power in the Pacific and marked the beginning of the era of American expansion which later included the acquisition of Porto Rico and the establishment of what is virtually an American protectorate over Cuba.

END OF SPANISH POWER. Meanwhile, on April [illegible] a fleet composed of four first-class cruisers and three torpedo boat destroyers left the Cape Verde Islands with destination unknown. The consternation created along the Atlantic Coast by the many unfounded but at the time very alarming, rumors concerning the whereabouts of this fleet is still remembered. Though numerically inferior to the fleet destroyed by Dewey, it was actually much more powerful, for the four cruisers were new and of the most approved type, and all things considered, were to be regarded as the equals, ship for ship, of the American vessels which were to oppose them. After weeks of uncertainty, during which the fleet was located by rumor at all sorts of impossible places, it was finally ascertained to be in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. There it was blockaded by the American battleship fleet under the command of Rear-Admiral Sampson, and its effort to escape on the morning of July 3 resulted in the naval battle which wiped out the last vestige of Spanish sea power. The land campaign that followed soon settled the question of the future of Cuba, so far as the Spaniards were concerned, though just what its actual future is to be is still an unsolved problem.

The Spanish-American War does not rank among the world's greatest conflicts as to duration or numbers engaged, and as to fatalities—well, our American railroads slaughter more people every year than were killed in the whole war, both on land and sea. But it settled many questions of the utmost importance, and produced an effect on world politics which will endure long after its last survivor has passed away. The most immediate of these effects was the complete wiping out of the Spanish colonial empire. The United States acquired the Philippines by conquest and purchase, and Germany soon afterward bought the Caroline Islands, Spain's only remaining possession in the Pacific. The boy-King was forced to acknowledge the independence of Cuba and to cede Porto Rico to the United States, which reduced his dominions to the Spanish mainland and a few adjacent islands. As a colonial power, Spain ceased to exist, and the magnificent empire won by Ferdinand and his immediate successors came to an end.

CHANGED POSITION OF UNITED STATES. But more important even than this was the entry of the United States into the forefront of the world-powers. Hitherto it had maintained an isolated position counseled by Washington and [illegible] fathers of the Republic, a position of strict noninterference with international politics wherever possible. But now it assumed the place in the eyes of the world to which it was entitled by reason of population, wealth and advancement. Aside from the mooted question of whether or not expansion overseas has been a wise policy, nobody can deny that the added prestige gained by the Spanish War has been of tremendous value to the United States. It has given us an entirely new and far weightier influence in world politics, and without sacrificing in the least our highly prized reputation as the most just of all nations in dealings with the weak, it has added vast strength to our position in dealings with the strong.

All things considered, Americans have little to regret and much to be proud of in reviewing the extraordinary events in their history which began with the [illegible] ten years ago last Saturday. Porto Rico and the Philippines have been tremendously benefited, and though Cuba is still floundering in the mire of its incapacity for self-government, we need only compare its present status with its condition in February, 1898, to realize what a vast gain has been made.

LENNOX FOR DELEGATE.

THE announcement that Mr. William Lennox of this city is a candidate for selection as delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago will be quite generally approved by the people of Colorado Springs and of the entire state. Mr. Lennox is not a politician, though he has always shown a good citizen's interest in political affairs, and his standing as one of the foremost business men of the community makes it highly desirable that he be chosen for this position. It is almost a certainty that the man named by the next Republican Convention to head the ticket will be the next President of the United States, and though the race is by no means decided, the character of the leading candidates is such that no matter who is chosen it may well be considered an honor to be a delegate to such a convention. As a representative citizen and Republican, Mr. Lennox will undoubtedly receive the solid backing of the Colorado Springs contingent in the delegate convention which meets at Pueblo in April, and his selection as one of the ten delegates will reflect credit on the party.

IRELAND'S REHABILITATION.

From the Boston Transcript.

The policy by which Sir Horace Plunkett hopes to rehabilitate rural life in Ireland is based on the principles of agricultural co-operation. This means the organized community of farming interests in the purchase of farming and domestic necessaries and in the development of co-operative credit. In 1894 the Irish Agricultural Organization society was founded for the purpose of promoting this co-operative policy. Opposition quickly sprang up among the small local traders, who saw in the extension of co-operative buying on the part of the farmers a menace to their business interests. This class controls the nationalist parliamentary party, which has consequently opposed the co-operative movement at every step. The national influence, moreover, is dominant in the department of agriculture. The result of this combination of small tradesmen and nationalist politicians was the recent dismissal of Sir Horace Plunkett from office. Sir Horace himself has tersely characterized the situation as follows: "We find that the political organization of the country, while nominally representing the Irish farmer, is, in fact, only allowed to do for the greatest interest and industry in Ireland just so much as the smaller trader in the Irish country town will permit. That is the whole plot of the comedy—or, I might say, tragedy—of farmer and super-farmer in Ireland."

The Irish Agricultural Organization Society, under the presidency of Sir Horace Plunkett, will henceforth pursue an independent and vigorous policy for the improvement of rural life through agricultural co-operation. The society will continue to accept a state subsidy from the department of agriculture, which it has done since 1900, only for a limited period, or until its finances can be placed on a basis of complete self-support. It will not, however, antagonize the department, but will aim to supplement the good work of the latter, in promoting technical education for the farmers, by developing co-operative methods in the business of farming.

THE AWAKENING OF ASIA.

From the Cleveland Leader.

Japan seems mighty and progressive and full of promise, while China looks weak, timorous, backward and weighed down with crushing inertia. The smaller country has swung into line with occidental civilization in many vital things. The continental empire is still of the orient, in the most extreme sense. Japan has borrowed so well and so eagerly that a great gulf has been opened between the islanders and their huge neighbor. But China is the country to watch, in the far view of national and international problems and conditions. China is the land of the largest possibilities before any country of Asia. And China is moving with a tremendous weight and at a quickening pace.

Consider the Chinese postal service. Its revenues have doubled in a year. The number of articles handled was nearly twice as great in 1906 as in 1904. The number of offices has been multiplied by two and one-half in the last three years. Think of the significance of Chinese railroad progress. The lines multiply and their business increases still more rapidly than their mileage. Chinese capital is building a fair share of the roads. Chinese engineers are proving themselves able to do excellent construction work. On the military side it is agreed that the Chinese army is far more efficient than ever before. It is being strengthened steadily. Arms of the latest pattern are being accumulated for future needs. All parties and all classes seem to agree that the national defense must be provided for as it never was in times past.

Most important of all changes, there is a new national spirit, a new desire to meet and equal the western powers on much of their own ground. Students and observers of Chinese affairs say that it is no uncommon thing to see idols stowed away in the cellars of temples that room may be made for schools on modern lines, where the altars stood. China is surely awakening. When that happens to so huge a sleeping giant the world may well take notice.

THE WALL STREET BOGY.

From the New York Journal of Commerce.

Men intelligent enough to know better, particularly in places distant from New York in the west and south, are wont to use the term "Wall Street" in an opprobrious way to conjure up bogies and work upon prejudices to the harm of those who do not know better. These conjurers and purveyors of delusion have conspicuous representatives in Congress whose vision of many important subjects is distorted and colored by a kind of superstitious horror of some imaginary monster whose lair is supposed to be in the purlieus of Wall Street. New York as a financial and commercial center suffers more or less in repute by being identified in the minds of men with this bogy-haunted realm. Wall Street is referred to as the center of stock gambling, of bank evils, of insurance abuses, of iniquitous promotions and exploitations, of corporate stock-watering and all the unworthy practices of [illegible]. New York has [illegible] the maledictions of the ignorant and superstitious and of the crafty and malignant who seek a bad eminence by appeals to passion and prejudice, with a patient shrug, but they are getting to deserve a serious protest.

What really does Wall Street mean to the financial and business interests of this country? The term in its general sense and in the sense commonly used stands for New York in its relation to those interests. It stands for the great mart of capital in the United States and the center for organization by which capital is brought together and utilized to the best advantage for supporting credit and vitalizing the currents of collection, distribution and exchange in the industries and trade of the country. This is not New York capital in any restricted sense. Capital comes here from all parts of the country and from abroad when it has occasion to seek investment, for here the opportunities are to be found. Enterprises needing capital and the means of organization come here as to the source of supply. New York, with its own large business requirements in industry and trade, with its banks and bankers, with its varied financial institutions and exchanges, and with the ability it has attracted and the experience it has developed, affords the means and agencies for the large operations in finance which the country requires and must have if its prosperous advance is to be renewed and sustained. Wall Street stands for New York in its capacity as the financial center of a continent, and it should be no more of a term of reproach in the eyes of Americans than is Lombard Street in the eyes of Englishmen.

The accusations and insinuations so frivolously or maliciously passed upon Wall Street ought to be resented and repelled by New Yorkers and discountenanced by men elsewhere who know how unjust and absurd they are, and those who make a bogy of it to pander to local ignorance and prejudice for political advantage ought to be made ashamed. New York may have had its share, but no more than its share, in the abuses against which outcries have been raised in recent times. Evils in forming trusts and mismanaging railroads, in fraudulent mining schemes and stock-watering operations, have not had their origin here in disproportionate measure, though exploiters of all kinds have resorted here for facilities for their work. They have found more resistance than help, and the abuses which men associate with Wall Street, deplorable as they may be, bear an insignificant ratio to its service to enterprises, great and small, that require legitimate aid and support. With Wall Street are associated not only banks and financial institutions, but exchanges, though none of these are on that thoroughfare. As the central mart for capital and for commodities in a large section of domestic commerce and three-fifths of the foreign trade of the country, New York provides exchanges for the leading staples of trade and for the securities representing investment and ownership in corporate enterprises the country over. In so doing it renders an immense service.

Operations on these exchanges afford a means of greatly facilitating the processes of trade and economizing their cost. They balance and equalize prices, bringing fluctuations within narrow and relatively stable limits. They afford a ready market for transactions in actual commodities and securities and furnish trustworthy quotations for business calculations. Without them there would be anarchy in the realm of business and distracting uncertainty from the grower of natural products and the manufacturer of staple commodities to the retail trader of the villages. They are a necessity, and where they are most needed and of most value is at the center of commercial and financial interchange. But they afford the opportunity for speculation, and in speculation there is great liability to abuse. It is often denounced as gambling, but little of it is deserving of that opprobrious epithet. Speculation is not the purpose of the Stock exchange and does not materially impair its legitimate function. But speculative dealing, which more or less characterizes all business in which there is risk, has its use, and it is to be clearly distinguished from anything that can be rightly called gambling. To speak of Wall Street as a place of gambling or as a center of iniquitous dealing, is an atrocious calumny. It should stand for what is great and honorable in the business activity of this country, and the flimsy and ridiculous bogy, which has been conjured up as a scarecrow and labeled with its name, should be relegated to the limbo of childish and foolish inventions.

Marks Final Work in Rebuilding Golden Cycle Mill—Running at Full Capacity.

OVER 11 FEET IN DAY

PREVIOUS RECORDS IN DRAINAGE TUNNEL BROKEN.

Superintendent McIlwee Confident Gain of 300 Feet Will Be Made the First Month.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 17.—All previous records and marks for a day's work at the deep drainage tunnel were obliterated on Friday last, when the picked crew of machine drill men engaged by Superintendent James A. McIlwee [illegible] two inches of the hard granite found in the heading of the bore.

Work under the Carlton contract commenced on Saturday, February 8, at that time the bore had been driven by previous contractors 1,438.8 feet. In six days the bore has been driven 53 feet, and Superintendent McIlwee is confident that when measurements are taken at the end of the first month, a gain of 300 feet or better will have been made.

Beginning March 1 the management is confident that a gain of 350 feet will be recorded each month, until such time as the intermediate shaft is down to the tunnel level, when operations will be carried on each way from the bottom of the shaft. At this time, it is expected that progress will be at the rate of 500 feet per month, and that the completion of the tunnel will be recorded well within the prescribed period of two and a half years.

WILL RESUME UNDERGROUND

C. O. D. Company Replacing Shaft Timbers Destroyed by Fire. New Machinery Installed.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 17.—Active operations will be resumed underground this week by the C. O. D. Leasing company at the 500-foot level of the C. O. D. shaft in Poverty gulch. The machinery destroyed by the fire of several months ago has been replaced and the shaft retimbered where burned out.

It is the intention of the leasing company's manager, Col. T. B. Burbridge, to carry crosscuts to the side lines of the property, if necessary, in the search for veins known to intersect the claim. High grade mineral was mined from the upper levels, and, although the ground has been barren below the 500-foot level, it is believed at the depth of 800 feet this zone will have been passed. Stringers of ore already cut give pay values.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER

LIBERAL REALIZING CAUSES A DECLINE.

Trade Is Light Until Late in the Day. Traders Being Restrained by Foreign Advices.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Wheat prices on the local exchange declined more than 1c, owing to the liberal realizing by several prominent holders. At the close, the May delivery showed a net loss of [illegible]. Corn was down [illegible], oats were unchanged, and provisions a shade higher to [illegible] lower.

The wheat market opened firm on buying by shorts and commission houses, which was based on firm cables and much smaller receipts in the northwest. Heavy world's shipments and an increase of [illegible] bushels in the amount of wheat on passage, however, had a tendency to restrain sellers, and trade was light until late in the day. The market was further strengthened by the smallness of primary receipts, total arrivals today being 533,000 bushels, against [illegible] bushels on the same day last year. In the final 15 minutes [illegible] selling by holders set in and caused [illegible] decline. The market [illegible] from this setback and [illegible] the lowest point. May opened [illegible] higher, at [illegible], [illegible] and declined to [illegible]. The close was at [illegible]. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to [illegible] bushels.

Trade in corn was quiet for the greater [illegible] and the market showed [illegible] firmness [illegible] receipts. Prices [illegible] during the final [illegible] commission houses. The close was weak, with [illegible] the bottom. May opened [illegible] higher at [illegible], sold off to [illegible] and closed at [illegible]. Local receipts were 134 cars, with one of contract grade.

Oats were firm nearly all day, because of a moderate demand by commission houses. Cash interests which have [illegible] the principal sellers, and few oats for sale, and this had a [illegible] declined late in the day because of weakness of wheat [illegible]. May opened [illegible] higher at [illegible], [illegible] off to [illegible] and closed at [illegible]. Local receipts were 115 cars.

Provisions were strong early in the day because of a 5 to 10c advance in the price of live hogs, but after weakened on realizing sales. At the close, May pork was off [illegible] at $11.25, and was a shade higher at [illegible]. [illegible] at [illegible].

AN ODD SUBWAY SIGN.

"There is one advertisement in the subway of New York just now containing a command that will, it is hoped, not be literally carried out by all of its readers. The advertisement is of a brewery, and may be read: Every day of this month drink—a case of 24 pints—beer." A calendar separates the two halves of the sentence, but it has won a smile from almost everyone whose eye it has chanced to catch.

Sale of New York Bonds Fails to Enliven Operations as Expected. Trading on Small Scale.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Dullness and depression overhung the stock market today. The active operations, which prompted price declines, were largely at the hands of professionals of the room trading class. The sentiment which prompted their attitude was, however, [illegible] a large reflection on the unfavorable interpretation placed on immediate events in the financial district and the lack of hopefulness of early betterment. Much had been hoped from the successful sale of New York city bonds as a stimulating force in the securities market. Today confirmed the impression of Saturday that the event has fallen flat. The impression was heightened by the action of the bonds themselves, which are dealt in "when issued" [illegible]. The price reacted more than a point from the first quotations in the new securities made on Saturday, and the older issue of city bonds fell back in company.

There were some special incidents in the day's happenings which had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment. New force was given to the fear of the government's prosecution of the Harriman railroad group by the steps taken against the Southern Pacific for rebating offenses.

The copper securities, including American Smelting, were under special pressure in connection with another sharp decline in the price of copper, both here and in London, and American Smelting touched a new low level for the year. Gloomy reports were current of the copper trade outlook.

The report of the net earnings of the Erie for the December quarter, showing the previous year's surplus converted into a heavy deficit, explained the past weakness in the securities of that company. Railroad traffic officials, in their usual weekly statement of views for publication, were not reported in the cheerful strain over the present state of affairs of traffic or the promise for the immediate future.

The apparent check to the inflow of banking funds from the interior evidenced by the last two bank statements is arousing some discussion, and seems to negative the assumption held at one time as to the extent to which reserves would pile up in New York after the panic had subsided. The replenishment of the deficit in reserves here, the withdrawal of government deposits by the United States treasury and the rapid rate of retirement of national bank notes has failed to take up the slack as the return flow [illegible] but no gold has gone out in export. The foreign trade statement for January shows, in fact, that the excess value of exports of merchandise reached a total of upwards of $120,000,000, thus exceeding even the record of [illegible] shown in December. The [illegible] of the international exchange [illegible] New York is thus explained. Some of the day's depression came from foreign influences. The Macedonian question, an important [illegible], [illegible] the relations between the United States and Japan [illegible].

Bonds were [illegible]. Total sales, par value, $[illegible]. United States bonds were unchanged [illegible].

TO GIVE TEMPERANCE TALKS

W. G. Simpson Here Arranging for Lecture Friday

W. G. Simpson, secretary of the Denver Prohibition committee, is here arranging for the appearance of Messrs. Woertendyke and Regan, the lecturers who are touring the state in the interests of temperance.

They will appear here Friday at one of the churches to be determined upon later.

Mr. Simpson states that temperance affairs in the city of Denver are pursuing their natural course and that aside from the squabble in the ninth ward conditions point to a great awakening of the people who are determined to eliminate the saloon.
